“ Bryan was a good guy. I was going to wish him the best, until I read that he supported Trumps wig. I guess he never developed any common sense. Gary was the smart brother, and the better baseball player. All kidding aside, rest in peace Bryan!

I remember Bryan as being sort of quiet and always very happy to help. We will miss him, but now he is not in pain and in heaven.

Bryan had a very special way about him; liked to do things "his unique way", liked to be "prepared" for everything, quite knowledgeable in sports and politics and a good husband to Tracy. But the best memory of Bryan for me was his accepting Jesus Christ on March 29, 2020, a most blessed day.
