“ Just thinking back to memories of christmas time spent with grandma. Can't believe she's been gone for over 2 months now. I will always have wonderful childhood memories to look back on, and the promise that I will see her again someday. It always seems you try, but when somebody is gone you think of what you could have done different, and you have regrets. It's strange how at such a sad time, losing a mother, grandmother, and great grandmother,certain family members decide it's time to show their true colors. But, it is what it is. Just thankful now to know. Rest now Grandma you hard work is over, and your reward is in heaven.
