“ Without exception, Papa would make me laugh every time I saw him. A while back, I ran into Papa while dropping my car off to Jimmy. First, he had to poke fun at the reason my car needed work, (backed into a pole). Then he got real serious and asked how long I would be in town. He asked if I could stop by the house later. Knowing that Papa and Sugar were both experiencing some health issues, I told him I'd stop by after my appointments, assuming there was something for which they needed a nurse. He then went on to tell me that he wanted me to stop by because there was some painting he wanted me to do. Cracked me up!!! At one of the 4th of July picnics, he was trying to get me to trade him my jag for his mustang. Finally, he asked me if I would leave it to him when I died. I jokingly told him sure I would, expecting him to say he'd leave me the mustang, but instead he said he'd leave me his old pick-up truck! He was such a hoot! I didn't get to see him very often, but I will miss him all the same.
